

Netherlands Ambassador supports the development of Sysgenic Group

Her Excellency Tanya van Goole, Ambassador of the Kingdom of the Netherlands, visited yesterday the Targu-Mures based Sysgenic Group, saying she would support the opportunities and potential for bilateral cooperation projects between Sysgenic and companies from the Netherlands. "I visited Sysgenic because I knew its history and the companies close economic relations with the Netherlands. We discussed with the management about Romanian-Dutch cooperation opportunities and we are willing to offer them our full support," said Tanya Van Goole.

The Sysgenic CEO, Dragos Pahontu, declared that the visit of Her Excellency Tanya van Goole means, above all, the recognition of the value and potential that the company holds in the European IT market. "The visit is recognition of Sysgenic's place in the European software technology market and the fact that we have a history in the field and relationships that we've grown over the past 14 years with companies from the Netherlands" said Dragos Pahontu.

Her Excellency Tanya van Goole, Ambassador of the Kingdom of the Netherlands, visited yesterday the Targu-Mures based Sysgenic Group, saying she would support the opportunities and potential for bilateral cooperation projects between Sysgenic and companies from the Netherlands. "In countries where I was ambassador I used to engage in relations with the business community, especially with the business community related to the Netherlands. Now I do the same thing, in the visits I undertake in several counties, I offer our support to companies which have close relations with the Netherlands. I visited Sysgenic because I knew its history and the companies close economic ties to the Netherlands. We discussed with the management about Romanian-Dutch cooperation opportunities and we are willing to offer them our full support," said Tanya Van Goole.

The Sysgenic CEO, Dragos Pahontu, declared that the visit of Her Excellency Tanya van Goole means, above all, the recognition of the value and potential that the company holds in the European IT market. "The visit is recognition of Sysgenic's place in the European software technology market and the fact that we have a history in the field and relationships that we've grown over the past 14 years with companies in from Netherlands" said Dragos Pahontu.

According to Dragos Pahontu, the issues that were discussed concerned the investment opportunities by Dutch IT companies and the openness of Romanian IT companies in discussing with potential Dutch investors. "We discussed the opportunities for development of Romanian-Dutch relations and issues concerning "Petru Maior" University from Tirgu-Mureş, about the fact that the university largely provides us with the personal need for the trainings that we do. We noted that Targu Mures represents for the Netherlands an extraordinary business opportunity that even the Dutch who are the best traders in Europe have not yet been able to fully discover. The fact that we'll have an international airport in Targu-Mures will certainly mean greater openness to investors, Targu-Mures being two hours away from Amsterdam," said Dragos Pahontu.
